And in particular, really enjoyed these sections on how to make better entrance and exit points and how to buy stocks wholesale. Very good book Wade. I'm looking forward to turning this knowledge into ca$h!

Wade did it again! Another winner!

In fact, I like this book better than all of Wade's other books. More meat. Less hyping the seminars. Take advantage of market momentum. I'm making money already with this book.

Brilliant! A outstanding book.

What impresses me about Wade Cook is that he teaches you to think for yourself. Stock brokers want you to think that you can't do it without them. If you end up listening to your broker (average brokers) you usually end up broker. No wonder so many dissatisfied investors are suing those guys.

According to a article in USA Today, 87% of people get investing advice from friends, neighbors and relatives and only 13% get advice from brokers and financial planners. The article went on to say that the 13% who got "professional" "expert" advice from financial planners, brokers and advisors wished they had listened to their friends, neighbors and relatives instead.

Why the complaints against Wade? For one thing, he is a rich, easy target. Notice nobody tries to sue a broke person do they? Another reason is that some people are looking for an out. Buyer remorse is common with all types of financial products and programs.

The genius behind Wade Cook is his ability to take the difficult and communicate that in an easy to understand way. And just think, Wade Cook's real passion is basketball. If he ever focused strictly on the stock market he would really be dangerous.

Red Light Green Light is an excellent book. With the stock market starting to buzz again, this book should be at your side before making any trade. I also recommend Wall Street Money Machine Vol 1, Wall Street Money Machine Vol. 2 (Stock Market Miracles) and 2 Bad Years and Up We Go which is an excellent book to show you how to trade when the markets are acting like they are right now...in a range.

The cost of these books is about the same cost as four trades with your broker and if you listen to Wade, you will actually end up richer, not broker.
