The Bible Code Before the computerized Bible Code - new material - in depth notes - people who like to compare

By Melanie Loomos

This facsimile of an early 1900's book is a great read. The writer spent a LOT of time pondering the books and his notes show that; it contains the text of the books of the Bible at the top of the page, and his research regarding those books (divided into sections related to different numbers) at the bottom of the page. This book is great for people who like to read older books and research -- seeing how people thought in a particular time period -- and compare it to newer research. This lays out a Bible Code that I have not seen and now I can compare it to the Bible Code generated by computers.
